Table of Contents

3  Girls' Bill of Rights
4  Advocacy
8  Discover
13 Prioritize & Research
14 Community
15 Trauma, Compassion Fatigue, Healing, & Coping
18 Meet the Team
19 Contact
Girls Inc. Girls' BILL OF RIGHTS™

1. Girls have the right to be themselves and to resist gender stereotypes.

2. Girls have the right to express themselves with originality and enthusiasm.

3. Girls have the right to take risks to strive freely and to take pride in success.

4. Girls have the right to accept and appreciate their bodies.

5. Girls have the right to have confidence in themselves and be safe in the world.

6. Girls have the right to prepare for interesting work and economic independence.
WHAT IS ADVOCACY?

Formal Advocacy: Advocacy is the deliberate process of directly and indirectly influencing decision makers, stakeholders and relevant audiences. Advocacy addresses problems by bringing them to the forefront of the agenda for decision makers, and by building visibility and public momentum behind an issue.

Self-Advocacy: Talking about yourself isn’t the easiest thing to do! Advocating for yourself is the process of speaking up for yourself and communicating your needs to others. Who are the ‘others’? You may use self-advocacy in the classroom, in your community, at your job, or even with your friends and family.

This toolkit will be used as a guide to help you advocate for yourself and your community.

GIRL-LED ADVOCACY

Girls Inc. is committed to centering our advocacy in the lived experiences of girls. We aim to lift up girls’ voices because we believe all girls have the capacity to be effective advocates.

We aim to empower girls with the tools necessary to be change agents in their communities and beyond, and to develop into civically engaged individuals.
Advocating for yourself or your community can be a scary thing to do. You might be thinking: what if I’m not good at speaking in front of people? What if people won’t listen to me? Good news! There are many types of roles you can assume as an advocate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Role</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Researcher</td>
<td>This role is for the thinkers! You may be a person who likes to investigate what social issue is happening and why. You may research people in your community and see how they can help bring positive change.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spokesperson</td>
<td>Do you like to talk in front of people? You may share your ideas and people listen to you! You are the leader of your cause, and you create change in your community by using your voice.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Proposal Writer</td>
<td>Hey, maybe you don’t like to research or speak in front of large crowds, but you are an excellent writer. You can tell a story that people can connect with. You are a powerful tool in the advocacy process.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Which role is right for you?
Find out more by visiting the Youth Advocacy Resources Hub
What does a leader look like?

Leadership is an essential part of being a member of a community. Leadership involves recognizing and accepting the unique talents of each community member to play a role in that community. It’s an important facet for a leader to have a sense of responsibility for their community. This sense of responsibility translates into recognizing both what is good and what needs changing within the community.

Why is it important for women and girls to acknowledge their leadership skills? For girls to realize that they are the experts on issues that influence their lives, and they have the power, ability, and desire to make their communities better places for themselves and for others.

Skills of a Leader

- Organizing
- Decision-making
- Communication
- Creativity
- Planning
- Building Relationships
Effective communication means speaking clearly in words others can understand and listening carefully when someone else is talking.

You must be able to communicate well if you are able to help others. You’re only likely to make a difference in people's lives if they cannot hear you and understand what you are saying.

Tip: communicating is not just about speaking; it’s also about listening.

A large part of how you communicate with others is through your facial expressions, body language, tone, and speed of speech.

Communication Skills
- Concise
- Clear
- Coherent
- Concrete

Communicating What You Need
DISCOVER

Know Your Why

Where Can I Start?
The basics of Federal, State, and Local Advocacy

Be Informed
Understanding the reason why you see the need for change in your community is the first step. Here are some questions to start with:

- WHAT? What is the issue you want to address?
- WHY? Why is it important that others engage in changing this issue?
- WHERE? Where will you find information to help you understand the issue better?
- WHO? Who will listen to you?
- HOW? How will you begin your advocacy journey?

Find out more about Knowing Your Why
Period Poverty

Menstrual Equity Legislation
Advocating for yourself and your community is hard work. Don’t do it alone! The more voices you have behind your cause, the more you can impact change.

PRIORITIZE & RESEARCH

All advocacy efforts require a lot of research! Yes, research. This is not your typical type of research.

First, we establish who the stakeholders are.

What is a stakeholder?
A stakeholder is someone, or a group of people, who hold authority in the decision-making process.

Who are the stakeholders?
- Individual (you are a stakeholder!)
- Communities
- Community leaders (think teachers, school board members, principals, youth leaders at religious congregations, clubs or after school programs)
- Mayor, Senators, Council Members, State Representatives

How do I identify the stakeholders? Ask yourself these questions:
- Who is directly impacted by the issue?
- Who has tried to address the issue in the past?
- Who has the influence to make change?
WHERE DO I START?

After you find out who represents you on a local, state, or federal level, you will begin searching for bills, policies, laws, and community work that are directly related to your cause.

Refer to Be Informed in the Toolkit to find out who represents you!

EXAMPLE:

2190 North Loop West, Houston, TX 77018
Harris County Address Lookup

Congressional Representative: Sheila Jackson Lee, District 18
State Representative(s): John Cornyn & Ted Cruz
Harris County Judge: Lina Hidalgo
Harris County Commissioner: Rodney Ellis, Precinct 1

Refer to the legislative chart to understand the overlap between federal, state, and local levels!

FEDERAL

Congress Activity: Sheila Jackson Lee
Senator Activity: John Cornyn & Ted Cruz

STATE

Texas House Representative: Penny Morales Shaw
Texas Governor: Greg Abbott

LOCAL

Harris County Judge: Lina Hidalgo
Harris County Commissioner: Rodney Ellis
Dear (local/state/national elected official’s NAME),

INTRODUCTION
Include your name and grade (if still in school). State the purpose of your letter.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION
Explain what your concern is and include facts and statistics about the issue you care about.

PERSONAL CONNECTION
Share why the issue is important to you and how it affects you and your peers. Include a personal story about you, or someone close to you, who has experienced [X] issue.

ASK
State your call to action. What do you want your local/state/national elected official to do?

CONCLUSION
Thank you for the opportunity to share my experience and perspective on [X]. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,
[SIGN YOUR NAME if this is a printed letter to be mailed]

[Your first and last name as it appears on your government ID or school ID, and your preferred name if it is different]
[Grade]
[School]

SOURCE: GIRLS INC. NATIONAL: GIRLS INC. WEEK 2023
COMMUNITY

After you have identified your stakeholders and informed yourself about the needs of your community, you must actively engage with the community itself!

How will you engage with the community? You may use face-to-face conversation, social media, or conduct virtual meetings on Zoom or Facetime.

Tip: ask the community members what communication style works best for them. Remember, you’re all in this together.

Build partnerships in the community! This takes a lot of time. Relationships do not develop overnight.

Creating a timeline will help you determine how long it will take to get the community engagement effort off the ground.

Download an interactive Youth Advocacy Workbook
TRIUMA, COMPASSION FATIGUE, HEALING, & COPING
ADDRESSING TRAUMA

What does trauma look like?

Trauma is extremely complex and can affect people in a variety of ways. Adolescents can be exposed to a variety of traumatic events or trauma types. Here are some ways you may be affected:

- Bullying
- Community Violence
- Physical and Emotional Abuse
- Grief

Understanding the Types of Trauma

During your advocacy journey, it is normal to feel personally impacted by issues you care deeply about. Recognizing your limitations and possible past trauma can help you navigate the issue you are advocating for.

Mental Health Resources

- Tips for Anxiety
- Helping a Friend in Need
- Staying Safe Online
Compassion fatigue is described as the physical, emotional, and psychological impact of helping others. Those that work in fields that provide support to others may experience compassion fatigue as time continues. Emotional exhaustion due to handling other individuals needs is understood and, in some cases, expected.

Signs of Compassion Fatigue:
- feelings of helplessness and powerlessness in the face of suffering
- reduced feelings of empathy and sensitivity
- feeling overwhelmed and exhausted by school/work demands
- feeling detached, numb and emotionally disconnected
- loss of interest in activities you used to enjoy
- increased anxiety, sadness, anger and irritability
- difficulty concentrating and making decisions
- difficulty sleeping and sleep disturbances like nightmares
- physical symptoms like headaches, nausea, upset stomach and dizziness
- increased conflict in personal relationships
- neglect of your own self-care
- withdrawal and self-isolation

You are not alone
HEALING & COPING

You might feel overwhelmed with a lot of information, right? You might be wondering how you can heal yourself in a world that is constantly stimulating your senses.

SELF-CARE ACTIVITIES:
- Meditation
- Deep breathing
- Allow time to sit in quiet
- Take a nap
- Listen to music
- Go for a walk

Engaging with technology and social media can be exhausting!

USE TECHNOLOGY FOR SELF CARE:
- Turn your device on Do Not Disturb to silence notifications when you need time to yourself
- Limit your screen time and social media engagement
- Download apps designed for stress reduction
- Play puzzle games on your phone or tablet
- Read, draw, or write (be creative!)
Girls are more likely to put themselves down when comparing themselves to their peers.

STRONG
Accepting yourself for who you are. Accept your strengths and weaknesses. Recognizing your weaknesses and setting reasonable goals for yourself to strive in the future. Praise your strengths!

SMART
Seek new opportunities (even if they’re scary or intimidating). Learn a new skill that is outside of your comfort zone! Join a club or a group that shares your interests.

BOLD
Speak up for yourself and others in the classroom, at home, or with your group of friends. Be a part of decision-making processes and share your ideas! Model positive and healthy behavior around others.
MEET THE TEAM

STAKEHOLDER TEAM
Chief Executive Officer
Treopia Cannon

Chief Program Officer
Rebecca Cox, LMSW

TOOLKIT TEAM
Advocacy & Policy Manager
Marlena Grooms, MSW

Digital Marketing Manager
Simone Williams

Executive Administrator
Hilary Pircher

Master Social Work Interns
Lauren Radcliffe
University of Texas Arlington

Lauren Williams
Walden University

Ja-Niah Dupree
University of Texas Arlington
Contact Us

📞 713-802-2260
✉️ programs@girlsinc-houston.org
🌐 girlsinc-houston.org
📍 2190 North Loop West
    Suite 105
    Houston, TX, 77018